

Using RSS to Promote Scholarly Publications

Ken Varnum
Associate Librarian
Edwin Ginn Library
The Fletcher School
Tufts University
<http://www.library.tufts.edu/ginn/>
ken.varnum@tufts.edu

Presentation Abstract:

The Edwin Ginn Library has created several databases to track and promote scholarly research by The Fletcher School's faculty and students. A faculty publications database provides RSS feeds by author and user-supplied keyword along with a current awareness feed that includes everything published. A second database highlights students' master's theses. Feeds are used internally to populate web pages and externally to promote the school. Learn how we created these two services.

Links

My Email	ken.varnum@tufts.edu
Presentation Slides	http://varnum.org/papers/cool-tools.ppt
RSS4Lib Innovative ways libraries use RSS	http://rss4lib.com/
Fletcher Faculty Publications	http://ginn.fletcher.tufts.edu/articles/
Fletcher Master's Theses	http://www.library.tufts.edu/ginn/mald/malds.html
Feed2JS	http://feed2js.org/
COinS	http://ocoins.info/