“Integrating Technology” is a priority, but...

- Difficult to make concrete
- Brainstorming and creativity are needed
- Inspire peoples’ imagination
Meanwhile, out on the web

Angie said...

The podcasts to which I subscribe regularly are from the Daily News Hour for when I can't or don't want to watch TV. Since the News Hour is heavy on talk and light on images, it's a fine TV program to listen to as a podcast. I listen on my iPod when I walk, in the car, etc.

While this isn't exactly about podcasts, I would like to note my frustration at not being able to use my iPod to download NetLibrary books through UVM. It has something to do with "copyright." Jeesh

Fall 2009 Brown Bag Lunch and Learn Sessions

Wednesdays, Noon-1 PM Bring your lunch and your questions to the Dana Library Conference Room for our Brown Bag Lunch and Learn sessions. Learn how to use EndNote, CINAHL, Google Scholar, and much more!
Current use of web 2.0
Review of the FY 2008 OMB Circular A-133 Audit Report and the NCAA Audit Report

Familiarity with tools pays off

- UVM Portal
- UVM and College of Medicine versions of Blackboard
- Both Blackboard versions use wikis
- College of Medicine podcasts all lectures
- Prospective employees come to campus and we all know what they’re talking about!

At our desks you'll see many of us working.
Bet you didn't realize that we were social networking.
The furniture's comfy and functional too,
With wireless access - too good to be true!
The skylights admit the sunshine so fine,
Till darkness takes over and the stars brightly shine.
A popular study space,
A central meeting place,
For education, navigation,
Explanation and fascination.
And thanks for what has come our way,
Fair Dana is closed this Thanksgiving Day.
