Multiple choice poll

"Choose your favorite color"

What is it?

With multiple choice polls, you define a list of possible answers. Graphs will display the results in real-time.

Free text poll

"What is your name?"

What is it?

Your audience can text in anything. Gather feedback or identifying information, like names or ID numbers.

Goal poll

"Set goals and raise money"

What is it?

Receive pledges for donations to your non-profit from people via text messages! During your fundraising event, you can use our pledge thermometer which shows live pledges to add excitement and encourage other people to pledge.

Responses

Each person may respond

up to time

as much as they like

Applications?

- As assessment (pre- or post-instruction session).
- As a means of developing student-centered learning.
- As a way to get feedback anonymously.

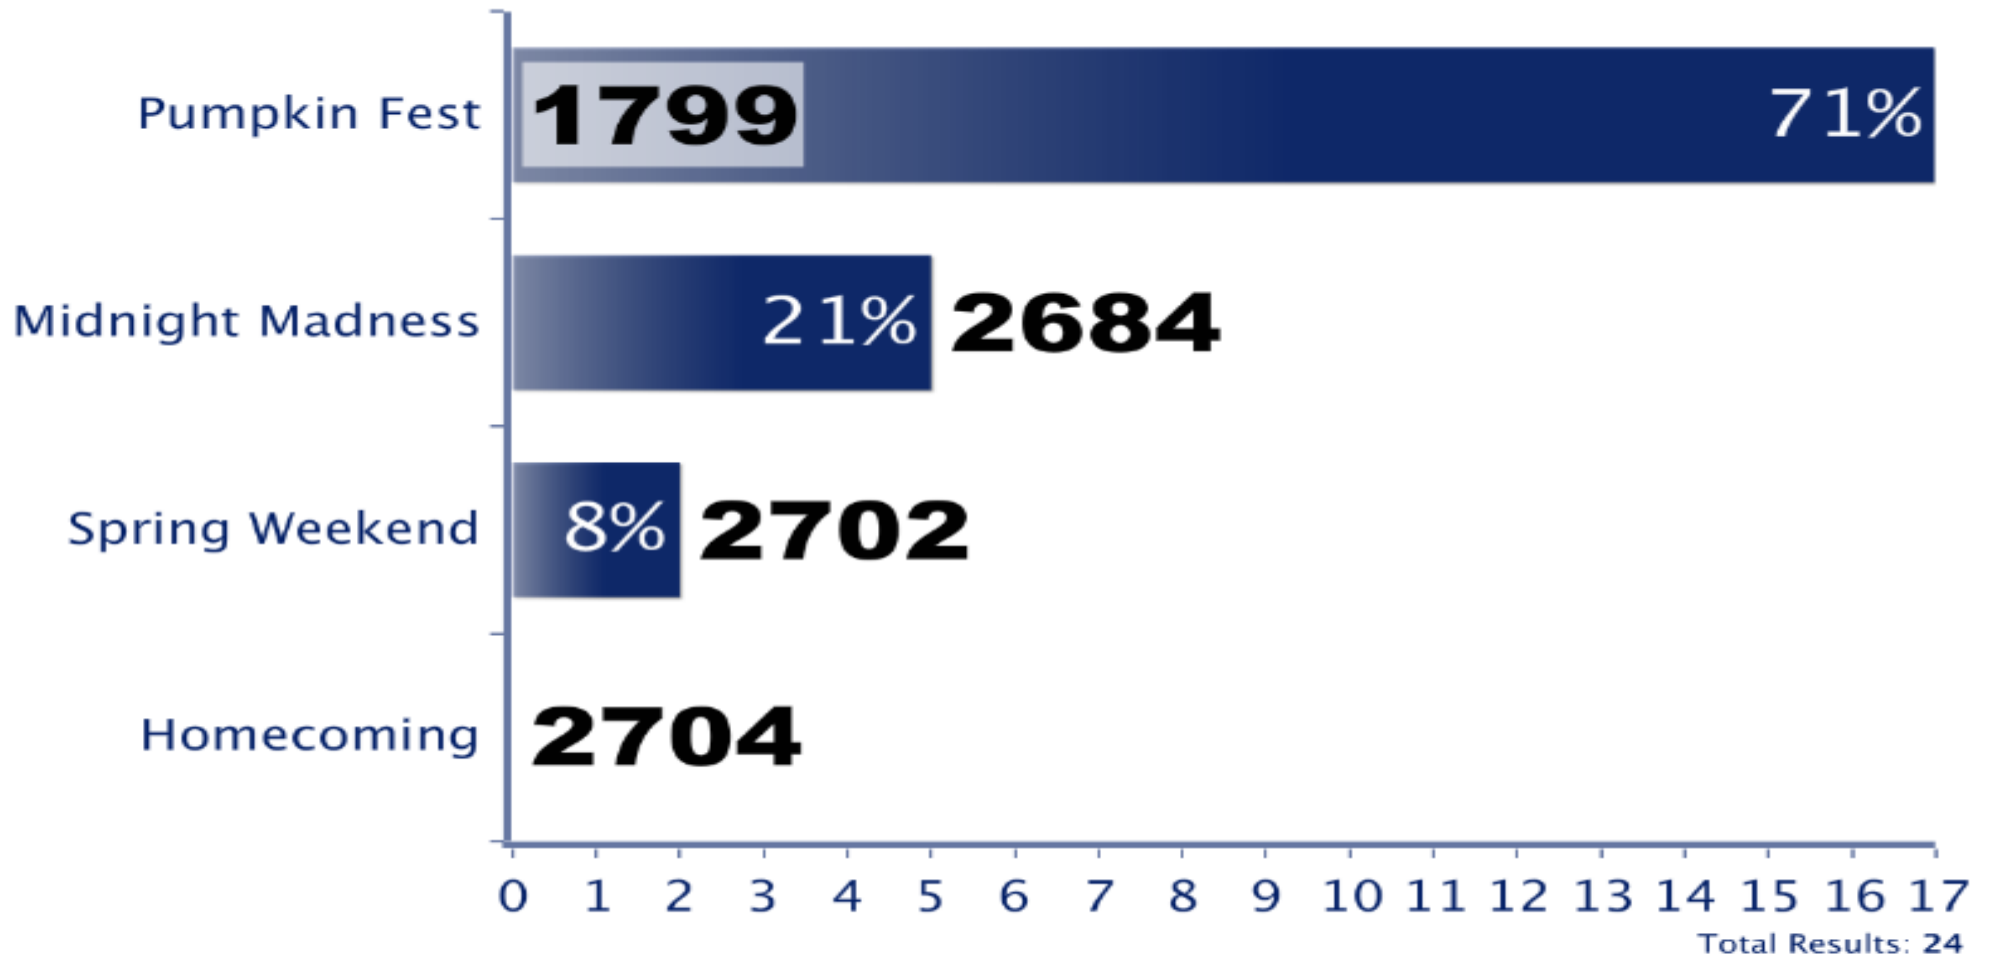

Why?

- Engages students
- May make them more willing to share information or ask questions
- Incorporates technology- not the “same” library session they might expect
- Easy set up! Your polls download as Powerpoint files, complete with instructions.
- No Clickers, no batteries.

Problems/Drawbacks

- Students can see the answers others have chosen and might “adjust” their answers to be more in line with their peers
- A cap of 32 responses per question- fine for our instruction purposes, but limiting with larger groups.
- Free-text responses could get out of hand- students clearly enjoy seeing their texts on the big screen.

Potential Solutions

- A paid account opens up more options (more control over polls, more responses, the ability to limit who can post, and identify respondents, etc.)
- Wiffiti for open-ended questions:
 - Can still solicit anonymous input/feedback
 - Automatically filters content before it “goes live” based on a movie-like ratings system
 - Can embed response screen
