

CALL FOR ESSAYS & CREATIVE WRITING PROJECTS

2010 Undergraduate Ethics Symposium – DePauw University
April 8-10, 2010

Invitation

DePauw University invites you to take part in the Undergraduate Ethics Symposium at the Prindle Institute for Ethics, a center for interdisciplinary reflection on ethical issues. This symposium is an opportunity to engage in dialogue with leading scholars and artists about today's ethical concerns.

Although students may write about any ethical issue, this year we especially encourage submissions focusing on Self-Interest, Altruism and Morality: Evolutionary, Religious and Philosophical Perspectives. Students may submit either an argumentative essay or a creative piece.

Highlights

- Participating students attend seminars with distinguished visiting scholars or artists
- Students' travel (up to $400), lodging, and meals will be covered by the Institute

Submissions

- Deadline: February 1, 2010
- Submit to Linda Clute at prindleinstitute@depauw.edu
- Place name and collegiate affiliation on separate page
- Guidelines:
 - Essays and fiction pieces should be submitted in Chicago style (3,500 word limit)
 - Poets should submit 5-10 poems, not more than 10 pages total.
 - Playwrights should submit a 10-minute play
 - Film makers should submit a 10-minute film
 - Screenwriters should submit a 10-page screenplay
- Notification: March 1, 2010

Speakers:

David Sloan Wilson, Professor of Biological Sciences
and Anthropology,
Binghamton University

Claudia Mills, Professor of Philosophy,
University of Colorado

Ronald Sundstrom, Professor of Philosophy and Co-Director of African American Studies,
University of San Francisco

THE PRINDLE
INSTITUTE
for Ethics | A place for inquiry and discourse about critical issues of our time
DEPAUW UNIVERSITY