Academic Associate Program
Summer 2014

Program Dates: June 7th – August 17th 2014
Application Deadline: April 20th, 5 p.m. EST
Apply: www.slred.org/aap/applying

Overview:

The Academic Associates program is a clinical research assistant program in the Emergency Departments of St. Luke’s-Roosevelt Hospital Center in New York City. The primary responsibility of Academic Associates is to assist the department in ongoing research projects in an effort to bring greater precision to emergency medicine and improve the overall quality of care.

Academic Associates gain extensive experience conducting hands-on clinical research while being exposed to medical practice in two urban emergency departments. The program also includes many other benefits:

- One-on-one shadowing with resident in training
- Access to trauma and resuscitation rooms
- Focused talks and demonstrations, including medical techniques such as suturing, casting, and ultrasound
- Opportunities to observe EMT and paramedic teams in the field
- Opportunities to submit research proposals for future studies conducted in the emergency department of the Hospital Center

Commitment:

We ask for two four-hour shifts per week from each Academic Associate and also request your attendance at biweekly evening training sessions per semester. Please carefully review the "Commitment" section on our website. All Academics Associates are responsible for knowing and following our policies in regards to attending shifts, training sessions, and orientations.

Contact:

Academic Associate Staff: academic.associate@gmail.com

Website: www.slred.org/aap