Angelika Hofmann serves as Interim Director of Corporate and Foundation Relations. In this role, she works with the offices of the President, Provost, Senior Vice President of Development, Deans, and faculty to deepen cross-campus engagement and develop relationships with the largest national and international foundations and corporations. Angie holds a Ph.D. in molecular biology and biochemistry from the University of California, Irvine, and was a post-doctoral fellow at the Max-Planck-Institute of Molecular Genetics in Berlin, Germany. She is the founder of SciWri Services, a venture providing editing, training, and consulting services worldwide, and the author of two books that are standards in the field of scientific communication: Scientific Writing and Communication – Papers, Proposals, and Presentations, and Writing in the Biological Sciences (Oxford University Press.)