There are a variety of resources available for students who are interested in study away programs. Most sponsoring schools provide information on their websites. In addition, there are multiple resources available from organizations focused on study abroad programs. For example, the Student Abroad Handbook, (http://www.studentsabroad.com) prepared by Center for Global Education, can be a useful resource.

Students and Parents are encouraged to consider the safety and security of the programs you are considering attending. Also Dartmouth’s Dickey Center for International Understanding has prepared videos for travelers and we encourage you to view them. See: http://global.dartmouth.edu/travel-resources/helpful-videos

Websites where you can start searching for program options by criteria:

The following is a list of some non-Dartmouth programs where students have attended in the recent past and received transfer credit:

Please note that no program is an "approved" program and not all courses from these institutions will necessarily transfer. Some academic terms may not match Dartmouth College's academic terms and/or may no longer meet Dartmouth College's policy for transfer credit
